The TCB-Band with Dennis Jale and Gulliver's CEO Helmut Maurerbauer

The Artists

The TCB Band consists of four superb musicians who acquired their name through working for Elvis Presley. Elvis' motto was "TCB" - Taking Care of Business in a flash. These three letters were arranged around a lightning bolt, and the logo was used on everything from stationary to Elvis' private jet, the Lisa Marie. When Elvis returned to live performances in 1968, he had with him over the years a core of musicians who made up the rhythm section of the orchestra. James Burton, Jerry Scheff, Glen D Hardin and Ronnie Tutt later became known as The TCB Band.

James Burton

James was born in Minden, Louisiana and moved to Shreveport with his family when he was ten years old. He has been playing the guitar since the age of thirteen and is self-taught. Elvis Presley approached James and asked him to play on the famous 68 Special show, but James was working with Frank Sinatra at the time and had to decline. Elvis contacted James again in 1969 to tell him that he was returning to live performances and asked James to form a band to support him. That was when The TCB Band was formed. James continued to work with Elvis until 1977.

Ronnie Tutt

Born in Dallas, Texas, Ron started tap dancing along with singing at the age of three. He studied tap for eight years and was considered a "child prodigy" by many. After working in the studios of Dallas and Memphis, Ron moved to Los Angeles in 1969 following his first appearance with Elvis Presley's "comeback" performances at the International Hotel, which was later to become the Las Vegas Hilton. The first hit Ron played on was the first "live" version recorded on stage of Suspicious Minds.

Jerry Scheff

Bass player Jerry Scheff is a native of San Francisco and originally got his start playing in jazz clubs in the Bay Area at the age of fifteen. He later became a member of Elvis Presley's touring band and can be seen performing in the documentary films Elvis: That's The Way It Is (1970) and Elvis On Tour (1972) as well as the first ever show broadcast via satellite, Aloha from Hawaii (1973). Though he openly admits to not being an Elvis fan prior to meeting "the King" Presley's artistry won him over and he continued to work with Elvis until his death in 1977.

Glen D. Hardin

Glen D Hardin was born in Collingsworth County, Texas. His musical career then really took off in 1962 when he became a member of The Crickets, previously Buddy Holly's band. He joined the TCB Band in 1970 through to 1976 and as well as playing piano for Elvis, both in recording sessions and live performances, Glen arranged music for him and was a key member of the group. Glen received a gold record for arranging the music on Elvis's hit, The Wonder of You.

Jerry Schilling

His name both in the Elvis world and the world of show business. Jerry Schilling developed a deep friendship with the King of Rock and Roll that lasted twenty three years. He knew Elvis like no other. This is also the reason why Jerry was one of the main managers of the Elvis legacy. There is hardly a TV movie or a biography about Elvis, in which Jerry Schilling has not participated. Even today he is a close friend of the Presley family. Following Elvis' death, Jerry worked as a tour manager for Billy Joel, was the personal manager of the Beach Boys, Jerry Lee Lewis and the Sweet Inspirations.

Dennis Jale

Music was the first love and companion for the 12 year old boy. Today Dennis Jale, the marked Austrian Rock voice, is the man with the inimitable acoustic colour and the force to delight his audience with any musical genre. What started softly in a bedsit reaps today hurricanes of applause on international stages. Is it a gig with his band "The Jam Gang" which he established 1998 together with his best friend Goran Mikulec, is it cooperations with other well known artists as Gary Lux or Michael Seida or the TCB Band – the charisma of Dennis Jale wins over.

Joe Esposito

Joe Esposito was born in 1938. He first met "The King" during their army-time in 1958. They both went through basic training at Fort Hood, Texas, but they didn't meet face to face until a year later when they were based at West Germany, where they fast became friends. Esposito became Elvis's road manager and bodyguard beginning in 1960 and helped Elvis's aide Marty Lacker with the accounting. Esposito also played the guitar for Elvis's recording sessions from 1971 onward. After Elvis's death in 1977, Esposito started his own business.

Sam Thompson

Often viewed as a brother in law to Elvis, Sam Thompson is the brother of Linda Thompson, who was certainly an important partner of the King of Rock 'n' Roll following his divorce from Priscilla. As a bodyguard and a member of the legendary Memphis Mafia, he spent five years (1972 to 1977) working for Elvis. He went on tour and even after the relationship between his sister and Elvis broke up, he remained loyal to the King. Elvis loved to have Sam around him and bought him and his wife a house near Graceland. It was in this house in 1973 that the famous "Home Recordings" were produced which are still absolute treasures today.
